

While I am new to Amateur Radio (licensed 02/02/02), I am concerned with the potential interference problems which are likely to be caused to Amateur Radio and similar services by the proposed BPL/PLC systems. While I am sympathetic to the need for more universal access to the Internet and other data services, I feel that implementation of BPL/PLC proposals are premature at best. Much more testing, under actual field conditions, is necessary to insure that incumbent services are not adversely impacted.
